FOREWORD

INDIA has in the course of centuries built up a rich and diversified literature in many languages. Though literacy was restricted to only a selected few, the oral tradition enabled the common man to share in some of this cultural wealth. Differences in language and script, however, prevented him from inheriting more than a limited segment of India's immense literary resources. In the past this did not matter so much as each area lived its own isolated life. With growing contacts among different regions and different languages, the need as well as the desire for greater knowledge of the different literatures of India has grown. The spread of literacy throughout the country has given further strength to such a demand.

In earlier days, the number of books in any one language was few and only a few scholars studied them. Public libraries were almost unknown and where there were private collections their owners were familiar with almost every book individually. All this has changed in the modern age. The number of books has increased along with the number of readers. Public libraries have become a normal feature of a nation's life. The number of books, pamphlets and periodicals is so large and growing so fast that not even the most assiduous of readers can keep up with the tide of publications. In such circumstances it has become increasingly difficult for a scholar to undertake the study of even his own language without the aid of catalogues and bibliographies. Such compilations are even more necessary where a scholar seeks to study publications in more than one language.

It is therefore easy to understand that there should have been an increasing demand for a bibliography which would give the necessary information about publications in all Indian languages. The increasing volume of Indian publications, both official and non-official, cannot be handled by scholars and librarians without classified lists based on topic, author and language. Differences in script have further underlined the need but before the attainment of independence there were not only practical difficulties in achieving such a national bibliography but perhaps there was also no desire for it.

The first step towards the preparation of a national bibliography was taken when the Government of India enacted the Delivery of Books (Public Libraries) Act, 1954. Under this Act, the National Library, Calcutta and three other libraries were entitled to get directly from the publishers a copy each of every book published in the country. In 1956 the Act was amended to include in its purview all the periodical publications in the country. These enactments made it possible to plan a comprehensive national bibliography of publications in all Indian languages.

It was at first thought that the compilation of the national bibliography should be entrusted to the proposed Central Reference Library. For one reason or another, the establishment of the Library has not yet materialised. If the compilation of the bibliography was further postponed, it would have meant that the benefits of the Delivery of Books Act would be lost during the early years of its enactment. It was therefore decided that the work should be done at the National Library, Calcutta, by the staff of the Central Reference Library recruited specially for this purpose. This was done with an understanding that the work would be transferred to Delhi when the Central Reference Library is established there.

One of the major difficulties which the compilers had to face was the multiplicity of languages and scripts in India. The problem of scripts was even more serious from the point of view of the bibliography. Europe has many languages but since they share a common script, the preparation of a bibliography presents fewer difficulties. The first question to decide was whether the bibliography should be in one script or in all the scripts of the country.

Practical considerations relating to the issue of a quarterly bibliography from one place decided the choice in favour of one script. If each state in India had a State Library which could prepare a bibliography in the language of the State, it would have been possible to prepare a unitary publication based on their work. Unfortunately, many states in India do not have a State Library equipped for the purpose. Again, there are only a few presses in India which can print in all the Indian scripts and their charges are generally very high. The cost of printing the bibliography in many scripts would have been prohibitive and placed it beyond the reach of most buyers. Besides, a bibliography compiled in the various scripts of the country would have been more difficult and complicated and therefore less useful to the normal user. There would have been at least fourteen classified sequences each with an index of its own and then another index comprising all the parts of the bibliography.

For this and other reasons it was decided that the proposed bibliography should be in one script. The question then arose whether this should be in Roman or in Devnagari. Transliteration problems arise in the case of both these scripts but they are fewer if the Roman script is used. Also, the librarians of university libraries, state libraries, district libraries and urban libraries, who would mainly use the bibliography, are generally more familiar with the Roman script. This applies equally to the individual scholars who are likely to use the bibliography. Another important consideration was the need of libraries and scholars outside the country. The bibliography is intended not only for people within India but is bound to become an international book of reference. Taking into consideration the needs of scholarship in India and outside, it was therefore decided to compile the bibliography as a single sequence of classified Indian publications in Roman script.

The Indian National Bibliography which has been compiled as a result of this decision is the first major contribution to the world of bibliography made by independent India. I cannot on this occasion help thinking of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad whose vision, imagination and sympathy were largely responsible for the conception and execution of this project. A first publication of this type has to face the difficulties inherent in a pioneering effort, but our scholars have displayed both courage and resourcefulness in overcoming them. I should like to congratulate Mr. B. S. Kesavan and his colleagues for undertaking a task of gigantic proportions and carrying it out with such expedition, devotion and efficiency.

History and Scope :

The Indian National Bibliography is compiled on the lines recommended by the Indian National Bibliography Committee appointed by the Ministry of Education, Government of India. The Committee consisted of Shri B. S. Kesavan, Librarian, National Library, Calcutta (Chairman), Shri D. N. Marshall, Librarian, Bombay University Library, Bombay, Shri S. S. Saith, Librarian, Ministry of External Affairs, New Delhi, Shri Y. M. Mulay, Deputy Librarian, National Library, Calcutta, Shri N. M. Ketkar, Librarian, Central Secretariat Library, New Delhi, Shri B. Sen Gupta, Superintendent, Cataloguing Division I, National Library, Calcutta, Shri C. R. Banerjee, Superintendent, Acquisition Division, National Library, Calcutta and Dr. A. K. Ohdedar, Senior Technical Assistant, National Library, Calcutta. In their meeting held at the National Library on the 28th, 29th and 30th November, 1955 the Committee decided on the scope, script, cataloguing, classification, lay-out and the periodicity of the Indian National Bibliography.

An experimental fascicule was circulated by the Chairman of the Committee to the leading Librarians and Library Associations, both in India and abroad, seeking comments and criticisms and on the basis of these comments a final shape has been given to this bibliography.

The Indian National Bibliography, as defined by the Committee, is 'an authoritative bibliographical record of current Indian publications' in Assamese, Bengali, English, Gujarati, Hindi, Kannada, Malayalam, Marathi, Oriya, Punjabi, Sanskrit, Tamil, Telugu and the Urdu languages, received in the National Library, Calcutta, under the Delivery of Books and Newspapers Act of 1954 (Act No. 27 of 1954 as amended by Act No. 99 of 1956).

In the current issue, however, books in Assamese and Gujarati are not included as the recruitment of the personnel with the requisite language competence could not be made despite every effort. It is hoped that such personnel will be recruited before long.

The following types of publications are excluded : (a) Musical scores, (b) Maps, (c) Periodicals and Newspapers (except the first issue of a new periodical and the first issue of a periodical under a new title), (d) Keys and guides to text books, (e) Ephemeral material, such as Trade Catalogues, Telephone Directories, Reports and Financial Statements of Statutory Companies, Cheap novelettes and Publicity pamphlets.

Transliteration :

Names of authors, and titles of books in the Indian languages are transliterated into Roman script with diacritical marks wherever necessary.

The existing resources of type-faces in the Government Press have enabled us to carry out the transliteration into Roman script in a somewhat imperfect manner. Fortunately, the number of type-faces not available is very small and limited in number. The usual types (1) l, (2) m, (3) r, (4) t respectively, only four in number, have been used to indicate (1) the retroflex fricative in Malayalam and Tamil (2) the nasalization of the vowel in Bengali, Hindi, Oriya and Punjabi (3) the special 'r' sound in Malayalam and Tamil and (4) the alveolar 't' sound heard in doubling of the special 'r' in Malayalam and Tamil as well as in the combination of 'n' and 'r' in Malayalam. It is important to note that the place of publication and the name of publishers have not been transliterated. It is hoped that a complete transliteration table, with the proper symbols, will be printed in the subsequent issues. It has not been possible in this issue because of the non-availability of certain type-faces.

Arrangement :

This Bibliography consists of two parts, each divided into two sections, classified and alphabetical—the first part dealing with general publications and the second with Government publications including those of quasi-government bodies.

In the classified sequence the entries are arranged by subjects according to the Dewey Decimal Classification. The verbal extension of Dewey class numbers is shown by '1' in parenthesis i.e. [1]. For example 612.63[1] 'Birth Control'. Here 612.63 stands for 'Conception' and [1] stands for the expansion 'Birth Control' which is the specific subject. This expansion has been used in such places where the most intensive Dewey number is found still too broad for the specific subject. The Colon numbers are also assigned at the right-hand bottom corner of each entry against the language symbol.

The full information about a book is given in the classified section in the following order :—The class number, the author's name, the full title, the place of publication, the publisher, the year of publication, the pages, the kind of illustrations, the size, the nature of binding, the price, the series and annotations wherever necessary. Whenever a certain piece of information has not been ascertained, blank square brackets in their respective places indicate the nature of information not available. Wherever no indication is given as to the nature of binding it is taken that the book is in sewed paper covers. The language of the book is denoted by symbols which are given at the left-hand bottom corner of each entry.

294.4 is the Dewey number standing for Jainism.

'Mahābandho : mahādhavala siddhāntasāstra' by Bhudabali. Volume 4, contains the Hindi translation by Phūlacandra siddhāntasāstri. It is published in Banaras by Bharatiya Jnanapitha in the year 1957. It contains xxii preliminary pages and 369 pages of text. It has a coloured frontispiece. Its height is 26.5 centimetres ; bound in Calico and its price is Rupees 11. It is the eighth of the 'Jñānapīṭha mūrtidevi jainagranthamālā prakrit granthāṅka.' Hirālāl Jain and Ādinath Nemīnāth Upādhyāy are the editors of the series. 'Sk' denotes that the language of the book is Sanskrit and '57' stands for the year in which it is received. Q3 is the Colon number for Jainism.

Abbreviations used are explained on page xi.

Author :

Under each specific subject the entries are arranged alphabetically by the names of the authors. When the author of a book is known see under the name in the alphabetical section, that is, the index. The information given will be adequate for most purposes. If the information is found inadequate and fuller information is required, turn to the entry in the classified section. This can be easily found through the class number at the end of the author-index entry in the alphabetical section which is the connecting link between the author-index entry and the classified entry. The number is to be read as a Decimal number ; e.g. 181.4 will be found after the number 180 and before the number 181.41.

It is to be specially noted here that where there are two or more works by the same author under a specific subject the name of the author is not repeated and the works are arranged alphabetically by their titles, e.g. :

100—Philosophy

- Gāndhī, Mohandās Karamcānd, 1869-1948
 Food for the soul, ed. by Anand T. Hīngorānī etc.
 (E-57)
 (The) Law of love, etc.
 (E-57)
 (The) Science of satyāgraha, etc.
 (E-57)

Here the initial article 'The' is ignored for purposes of alphabetical arrangement.

Index-entries are also made under distinctive titles, editors, commentators, compilers, translators, series etc.

In certain cases entries are made under the names of countries, cities and institutions which are considered to be the authors of the publications. Journals, reports and transactions of societies are entered under the name of the societies ; and periodicals and anonymous works are entered under the title.

Subject :

The Indian National Bibliography gives an exhaustive index of the subjects. The classified part details the works on a given subject so exhaustively that the whole field of literature on a particular subject can be easily perused. The alphabetical sequence includes all subjects which can be found in the classified sequence and directs the users through the class numbers to all the books on that particular subject listed in the classified section, e. g. in the Index under the word 'India' is found a full list of the subject where book in any way concerned with India may be found thus :

India	915.4

Acknowledgement :

The Editors of the Bibliography are very much beholden to all the experts, Indian and Foreign, to whom the experimental fascicule was sent inviting their criticisms. In giving the Colon numbers to the entries frequent references had to be made to Padmashri Dr. S. R. Ranganathan, who was always ready with his gracious advice. To the members of the Advisory Committee appointed by the Government of India to lay down the policy of the compilation, the Editors are deeply thankful. Dr. Suniti Kumar Chatterji has been of constant help to us in clarifying a number of transliteration problems. We are very grateful to him for having solved many of our difficulties. The achievement of the British National Bibliography has been a constant source of inspiration and guidance to the Editors. They are very much beholden to the Editor of this Bibliography, Mr. A. J. Wells, for helpful comment and advice.

The team of Assistant Editors representative of every language in the country has not spared any effort to make this compilation a success. It would be appropriate to mention their names as the first group of persons to have set their hands to a historic piece of work like this representing the first attempt in Asia to compile a National Bibliography comprehending fourteen languages and representing an annual output of nearly 20,000 publications, official and non-official, excluding the ephemera etc. They are Sarvashri H. N. Ananda Ram (Kannada), Sunilbihari Ghosh (Bengali), K. M. Govi (Malayalam), S. R. Gurnani (Hindi), Gurnek Singh (Punjabi), A. M. Isaac (Government Publications), Saiyyad Jameel Ahmad (Urdu), Abakash Jena (Oriya), Shrikrishna Bapurao Joshi (Marathi), Narayan Balkrishna Marathe (Sanskrit), Ajitkumar Mukherji (English), and Karanam Ranganatha Rao (Telugu). Services of Shri P. N. Venkatachari, Technical Assistant (Tamil), National Library, were availed of for processing Tamil books.

In addition to his responsibilities with respect to Kannada, Shri Ananda Ram has been acting as the co-ordinator of this team and has himself checked all the Colon numbers. To the staff who got the manuscript ready for the press, and to the Manager of the Government of India Press, Calcutta, and his staff we are very grateful for having successfully dealt with this very complicated piece of work.

Because of a number of unavoidable difficulties the first issue of the Indian National Bibliography has a time lag of six months. It is hoped to set this right in the subsequent issues, so that its quarterly periodicity will be maintained regularly.
